H. L. V.

Hello! Welcome to Violet number one. I wrote this after being inspired by the Huggy Bear/Bikini Kill gig a few weeks ago (tho I had been planning it for ages). Hopefully this is the start of my fanzine writing career though this not all I will do for Riot Grrrl. At the moment  is the most important thing in my life - My senses have been heightened, the cloudiness is gone from my eyes now that I know I am not alone. You ARE NOT ALONE - this is about a network. A network for us to have our own system, our own life blood without the mainstream music industry - it leaves a bad taste in our mouths. Though it is a small contribution to something that will grow huge IT IS IMPORTANT.
Make it anyway you will, but these are my feelings and aspirations + I hope it helps you start up something of your own....

Kisses,

Lucy McKenzie

OK, WHAT ABOUT THE 'WHY SHOULDN'T I WEAR A SHORT SKIRT' QUESTION? I SEE IT LIKE THIS, IF I WANTED TO GO OUT DRESSED IN TIGHT CLOTHES AND HIGH HEELS ETC, IT'S OK BUT IF YOU ARE JUST DOING IT BECAUSE YOU HAVE BEEN BRAINWASHED INTO THINKING THIS IS HOW A WOMAN SHOULD DRESS THEN IT IS DIFFERENT FROM ME WHO HAS CONSIDERED WHY I WANT TO SHOW OF MY BODY AND HAS CONCIENCLY MADE A DESISION TO DO THIS INSTEAD OF JUST ACCEPTING THE NORM

The politics of being a GRRRL.

You will have probably read lots of stuff in the music papers about riot Girl, loads of it is bollox but some truth seeps through. First of all, don't pay any attention to what Everette True writes or says - everything he does is for his own personal gain in credibility, fame and no doubt, sexual satisfaction. He has realised this is IMPORTANT and wants a little of the excitement we girls are experiencing SO FORGET about him and his ilk at the music press.

Does anyone remember the "Great" Maker Debate in the sep. 26th issue? Let me refresh your memory with this snippet -

RITA DC: The press has to change. Maybe one day when we're successful we can help to break down the divisions but, at the moment, we're too busy concentrating on songs.

ET: But don't you think that, by getting successful, you'll be supporting the structure that keeps women down?

JO: That's right. We don't need the old system. We're starting our own. We've got our own venues, so you could play there or set up your own.

PATRICIA M: Yeah, but just who'll be reviewing the gigs?

JO: That's why we're setting up our own magazines, so you can generate publicity in them. We're also setting up our own companies. We want to create a whole other autonomous system.

RITA DC: But your companies can't achieve world status. I'd love them to, but we can't wait for it to happen. I'll bet you £50 that your company won't make it in a year!

JO: I can't believe this. We're just saying that the revolution is beginning. It's happening in America right now!

RITA DC: Good. But we still need help from the Well Rita from Die Cheerleader.

I hope you are truly embarrassed by your defeatist, sour comments, especially to Huggy Bear (you owe them £50 I think). Nice to see a bit of solidarity from you, just what we want - girls competing when they can be equal. Sigh.

Corporate rock system, don't we?

JO: No, we don't. And why have you got such a downer on starting something new?

RITA DC: Okay, we haven't, alright? We're glad that you're working for us.

NICKY: What?
(Silence)

Roit Grrrl can ^{mean} lots of things to lots of people;

If you spend every Saturday tramping round Glasgow selling a fanzine and set up grrrl gigs and burn down porn stores and beat up sexists you are just as relevant as the girl who just knows in her soul that somehow she is getting a raw deal from society and consciously does not try to conform - even if it's something simple like not shaving your legs or ^{not} ignoring and not taking seriously derogatory jokes and comments.

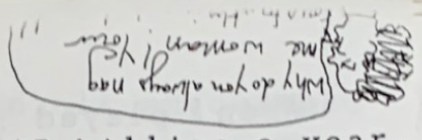

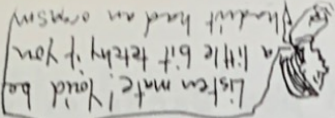

As long as you are not like the girl on the cover of this - fucked up, but staying silent - holding it in, she should get a band together or write or draw or ANYTHING as long as it's not kept inside you to get bigger and burst, I've always been a "mouthy bitch" and have aired my greivances so have earned quite a few enemies.

As long as you use the anger and frustration constructively - the qualities which have seperated you from the other girls at school are just the thing which may make others love you! Personally I want this movement to stay relatively underground; reading a friends copy of JUST 17 I was amazed at all the features about 'Grunge Fashion'. This was the 'wacky' new style which designers had picked up on and had now filtered into shops like Miss Selfridges and completely lost it's point in the process. The mainstream world had raped this underground style so in a few months it would be passé instead of the teenage, music based, fun thing. I can just imagine it -

"Come on girls! there's this crazy new style where you can pretend to be a rebel! All you need is a few slogans, a guitar (not necessarily a real one as you're not supposed to use it, just pose) and a Shakespeare's Sister tape (they are the weirdest band we could think of)!! Mind you, you must also be 5ft 12", have flawless, nicely shaved and plucked skin and designer Doc Martens if you really want to pull it off!"

No doubt if we are not careful + KEEP LETTING THE MUSIC PRESS BE IN CONTROL this kind of banal rubbish will appear in "Look in". The Corporate world picked up on Courtney so why not us. They WILL TRIVIALISE US!!!

Does anyone know how to get/make good fake I.D's? Tell me!

The Porn biz generates an estimated $7 billion a year, that's more than the legitimate film and music industries combined. Porn films outnumber others 3 to 1.

Do you like the idea of a male friend, boyfriend, brother or father reading porn? There must be a demand for playboy etc. so at some point a guy you know will have been exposed to it. This is fine if he does it realising what it may be doing to him subconsciously. I know I don't like the idea of a boy comparing me to the image he sees in this medium. Might he be expecting me to be like these women? I have never seen any gay male or female porn but I assume it does not have the same mentality of mainstream stuff. Guys find the idea of lesbian sex a real turn-on; why? It's NONE OF THEIR BUSINESS!! They are disgusted at gay, male mags but two girls is "kinky".

The soft porn girls are given is crap too. Did anyone see Basic Instinct? Sharon Stone bared everything but did we see anything more than a glimpse of Michael Douglas's arse? Course not, he has his dignity. I bet he was paid millions more than Shaz for it as well. The figures girls get to gaze at and are expected to be satisfied by are bloody TAKE THAT or similar men. No thanks - it's not even as if they are bimbo's. Have you noticed that on Top of the Pops, if there is an overweight, or ugly woman singing they spice it up with a few skinny models mouthing the backing vocals? Body fascism.

Riot Grrl means you do not conform to what the media want you to be. Think of life without boys staring at you - think PAST IT. Realise it is conning you into submission. They want us to have low expectations of me so we cannot see what imperfect lumps they are themselves.

When talking to Jane from Snagglepuss I realised that I'd had pretty bad experiences with boys. I'm no 'manhater' (if any of these actually exist, I have a sneaky suspicion that the term was just invented for ignorant men to bracket smart women under)

Angela Dworkin - SHE'S GOT THE RIGHT IDEA!

When I played in Boy Bands or with guyes, I always felt they were looking down on me; treating me as if I was younger than them (I was, but not by a significant amount of time). They didn't have me in a mini skirt, shaking a tambourine or anything but I still felt a bit left out. With girls though I find it is much more fun, like a gang. Me and my friend Sunni celebrated International Women's Day by creeping up to the sexist golf course and drawing a huge ♀ in the car park - I would never have done this with a man. Jane said that she had a completely different way of life with guyes in her band; she said they all get on and the girls arn't left out of anything. SHE'S SO LUCKY! It's not just the way I got treated by guyes in a band but at school as well.

Apparently I'm not a REAL guitarist because I don't want to learn any scales or harmonics or pentatonics or guitar jargon like that. Why bother if I don't even want to use it? I played the piano for years and did it that way and I HATED IT!! I practiced all my broken chords, theory and melodic minor scales and all that bollox. How did this affect me? I couldn't write a note of my own music and saw playing as a drag. When I started playing guitar when I was 14 I did it completely different - no lessons, just at my own pace and for fun with no pressure so now I love it. I was shunned by the guitar elitist, strat-shaggers at my school for not wanting to be Joe Satriani or Steve Vi. I really don't care now.

Riot Grrls realise that to make good music you don't have to beat them at their own game (though this is what L7 have done effectively) when you can have your own game for yourself. Boys (but when I mean boys I mean the wanks at my school) are into competition and how much your guitar costs, they compete to learn that Led Zepplin solo before their mates instead of just having fun, it is like a necessary ritual to them instead of doing what you want to do.

We are the real punks. What have guyes got to rebel againts? their parents? School? Fuck off! We can do that easy, but it takes guts to love your celulite and show it off when you are bombarded with messages telling you you have to try and be beautiful to the death.

RIOT GRRL makes girls friends again. It encourages them to be together and form a body - sexist men arn't as likely to harrase girls at a gig if they are in a crowd - SAFETY IN NUMBERS. Girls can shoplift, drink, dress-up, go out to clubs and gigs, graffitti + play in their bands together. So why do the majority of femmes not take part in these fun and character - forming (well maybe not character-forming but deffinely exilerating) passtimes?

Because girls ARE SUPPOSED TO BE ON THEIR OWN! we are to see every other female as an enemy, a cometitor in the GOOD LOOKES , BOYFRIEND AND POPULARITY MEAT-MARKET We are to be wary - maybe thats why we 'bitch' about each other. we are to be continually on parade for men to let their slimey gaze crawn all over us YUK! STOP STARING AT MY CHEST! Ever felt uncomfortable in a room full of boys? Felt they were comparing you to the 'prettier' gurls? I don't want to feel that. I refuse to feel uncomfortable and be self concious. With girls feeling a mutual animosity this is lessene and we can start to be ourselves - the way you are with, say, your mum - she don't give a fuck if you walk around without make-up on or if you fart so why make a difference in front of boys and the enemy - other girls (oh, this came out wrong, girls arn't your enemy but to dumb ones you certainly are). Without having to think about how others will think of you, we can start to have some real fun!

Gangs are fun, so are secret clubs (I Was in the POPPING CLUB + E.S.D.S. CLUB with some girlfriends but the rules are to pomographic to repeat) they really annoy boys who want you all to themselves. Gangs can just be about going out together, writing letters , hanging out or really serious stuff like, maybe for a few die-hards, a Glasgow branch of SCUM (The Society for Cutting Up Men) or Setting fire to fur stores, porn shops or Private schools.

The best thing that could happen is for all the Riot Grrrls in Glasgow to all keep in touch and really DO something and be friends - getting together occationally to talk,organise events, swap ideas and tips or just drink and party! UTOPIA!!!

Take some advice dear. When you go out with a boy, don't lead him on because once you "turn them on" they are uncontrollable + a nice girl could easily get into trouble

mum

Bollox!

I'm proud to call myself a RIOT GRRRL.

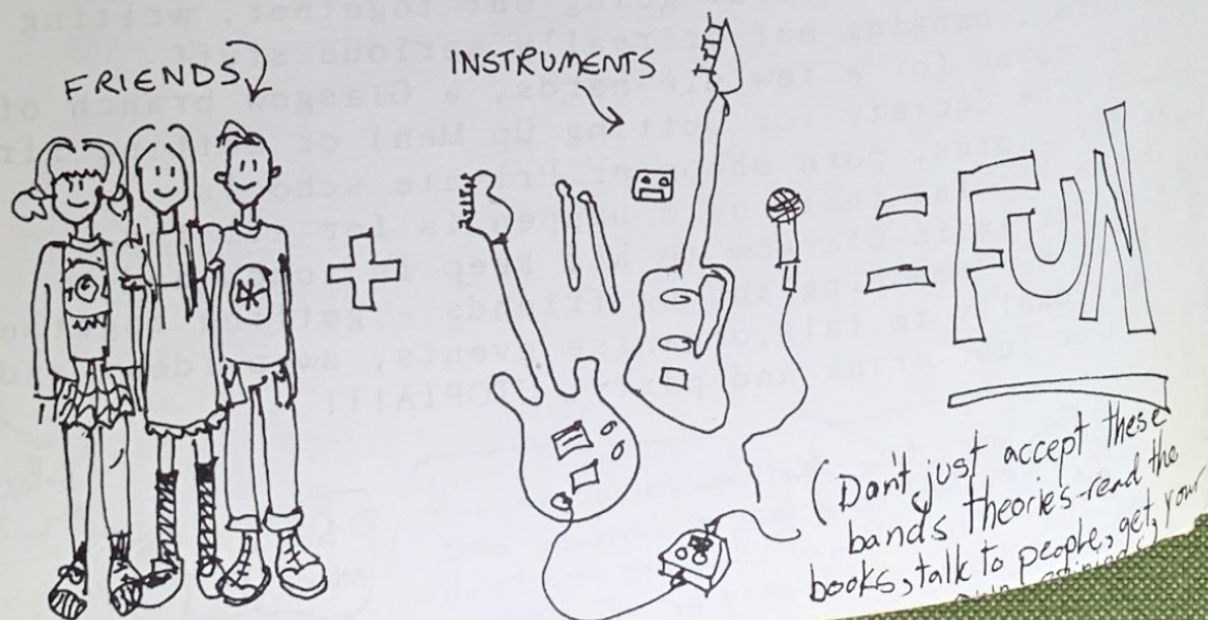

I don't see it as a label, just a loose term which shows I am female, love music, am a feminist, and WANT TO BE YOUR FRIEND IF YOU ARE ONE TOO.

I love boys and if you are a RIOT BOY I want to hear what you have to say too. You are in some ways just as brave as the grrrls as sympathy with feminists isn't exactly encouraged in this world.

Like Huggy Bears Philosophy, I want you to come and see grrrl bands and have a good time as long as it's not at the expense of us girllies. When men get drunk and boisterous and push us about it makes it uncomfortable and you can't just enjoy the music so if you are a guy reading this spare a thought for the girls you have pushed around - next time you do it you might just get the crap beaten out of you by US. Malcolm X (top film) wanted racial segregation - this can be translated into our own struggle at the moment. Blacks were suppressed and so are us females but I want us to be respected by men as we have been expected to do so for hundreds of years to them - the Black population did not get their equal (to an extent)ness by living totally separate lives. I wish this could happen but first we must build our own system to prove we are not the screaming, unarticulate children the Melody Maker would have us believe.

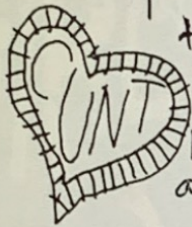

SO SAY IT LOUD AND SAY IT PROUDLY IN 'A PARENTS/TEACHERS / HUSBANDS/BOYFRIENDS/POLICEMAN'S FACE -

REVOLUTION GRRRL STYLE NOW!!!!!!

(Cindy Sherman books are available to loan from Glasgow School of Art Library)

Cindy Sherman is a riot girl photographer. Her books "Untitled Film Stills" show her in thousands of weird costumes + disguises. She's the ultimate manufactured woman - except she manufactures herself + is in complete control. From witches to housewives.

she's been photographed as it.

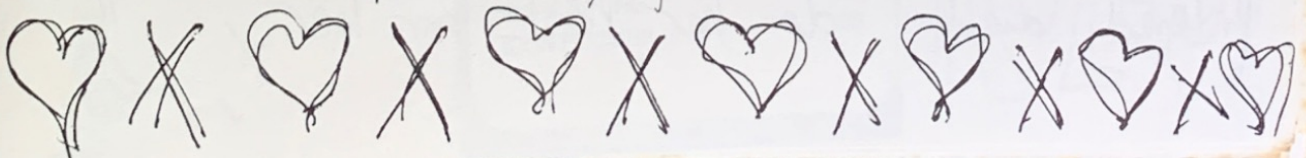

This is a must to go + see.

Niki de Saint Phalle was a model till she realised it was crap + became a feminist instead. She shows women in a brilliantly sexual, intelligent, magic, vicious way. It's only 50p to get in - wear stripy tights so you look like an exhibit!!

(Sorry, when this went to print this show was finito - hey, if you see anything about her CHECK HER OUT)

U DON'T WANT PERSON, YOU JUST WANT WOMAN!!

I met the most amazing person last night. It was a friend of a friend's 21st birthday party and this guy SCOTT O'BRIAN turned up. I didn't understand at first why my friend hid from him whenever he came into view but I was soon enlightened. I must describe this bloke - he's about 6ft tall and really beefy, has short spikey hair like Gazzas was when he brought out that single a while ago and wore nedy clothes. He had almost continually a cheesy expression (even when he wasn't drunk) on his dopey face. I started paying attention to him after I saw my friend, Adrian, making 'he's a nutter' expressions at him from behind his back. It turned out he had been in the army since he was 16 and had been to places like Northern Ireland and the Gulf and various other war torn areas. His stories consisted mostly of killing the natives, shagging young girls, stabbing homosexuals, reading pornography, more killing, guns, guns, 'bloody poof students', the oppression of muslim women (only joking readers) and more fuckin' killing. He referred to me as 'one of those stupid CND veggie weirdos' but I made no big deal about it - nearly did until Adrian said "forget it, don't bother with him - you could argue him under the table but he is so fuckin' thick that it wouldn't make any difference" which was true.

I just humored him for the rest of the night e.g. "Tell us the story about stabbing up that fag again, pretty please!" and laughed at his obtuse, meathead comments. The next day (today) he turned up in the morning at Adrian's house. "You sed sumfin' abou' gettin' trubble fae the hibs gang eh? Got you a wee present." he said. He then brought out this enormous gun - complete James Bond number (I won't pretend I know what the gun was called - I'm so uncool!!) and a fucking HANDGRENADE! Adrian shot himself and mumbled something about not really needing it - the wee light in Scott's eyes went out. He's got to go off leave soon and report to the Army psychiatrist when he gets back to his regiment. I always had an open mind about Army guys before I met this phallus. If he is an example I am glad the army is full of thick as pigshit men. Well, at least he will be dead soon.....

Bored Page

Life a drag? Bored easily? well, here is my list of cool things to do if you need brightening up

1. Next time you go to the supermarket, take along your personal stereo with your loudest, fastest, expitive filled punk tape so that as you wheel round the well lit, bright supermarket you can imagine it is playing in the loud speakers - you can see all the old ladies oblivious to it!

2. On a long motorway journey with your parents? Brighten it up by stuffing a hankie in your mouth, placing your arms tightly behind your back and stare painfully and wanly at passing cars - hopefully they will think you have been kidnaped.

3. When in a snorsome class at school on a sunny day, shine a mirror or watch face so that the sun reflection hits your teachers groin/breasts - especially if they are a pervey one (perve teacher of the month award goes to Mr Scott the Physics teacher at my school - we all have seen you stare at the girls legs and chests you slimey toad!)

4. Tell irrelevant lies -

Oh, didn't I ever tell you I could play the didgeridoo? By the way, my uncle discovered the Clash! And, you know that trio advert? Well it's Lesley from Silverfish who does the voice for Suzie!!!

5. Get dressed up! Not necessarily to be glamerous (Iremeber raiding a friends parents closet with some boys, these are boys who have played rugby by the way, and the guys had on fake fur coats, leggings, bras and polo necks!) but just to be different. Get on that old wedding dress! Pull up those spandex leotards! Just have some fuckin' fun girlies!

6. Go to bed with a good copy of Loveless by My Bloody Valentine and play it on your stereo in complete darkness. This is one of the most beautiful albums ever made - you can fly to it, drown to it, melt to it, kiss to it, float to it or just fall asleep quicker.

7. Drop acid and watch kids T.v. (exept FUNHOUSE on ITV, nothing could make that interesting!).

Other stuff to do - Tell your parents you are pregnant - watch their faces, it is a scream! Write down your dreams as soon as you wake up (I had one recently that Eric from Hole was my french teacher - he had blue hair + I tried to chat him up!) Look for satanic backward messages.

Spray paint Pornshops/Butchers/Fur stores/Police Cars/Schools etc IT IS FUN! Go camping. Buy a pet. Dye your underwear pretty colours + sew daisies onto them (thanks for the tip Lorna babes!). Hunt Sabotour, write to an old friend

SASSY-an expose

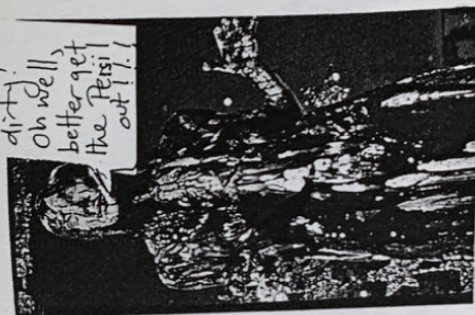

SASSY is an American magazine which is mentioned alot in connection with RIOT GRRRL. When I went to Boston on a holiday with my family last summer I couldn't wait to get my grubby paws (they were grubby as I was going through a faze where I wanted to be Katie-Jane from Daisy Chainsaw) on a copy of this feminist mag. I was severely dissapointed when I read the July 92 issue. Out of about 90 pages, 40 of these were adverts for stuff like lady shavers, hair dyes, false nails, make-up and that kind of banal rubbish. I was also horrified to see ads for things like 'Weight Watchers camp' and 'Get the body that gets the boys'. Not to mention the pages and pages advertising merchandise connected to BEVERLY HILLS 90210! (Has anyone SEEN Henters?) Though it had these drawbacks it did have a few good articles like the one on self defence and the diary of sexual harrasement. But it was still packed with thin girls and pages of beauty tips. Some of the clothes were ok and they did mention a few good bands but what is a girl to beleive when one minute they are being told they must be strong and love themselves and the next page is crammed with ads for the fuckin' diet that makes you get a boyfriend! TOO CONTRADICTION!!

I thought I would give it another chance when a friend brought me back the april 93 copy. This was even worse. They had 35 out of 85 ^{pages with} ads for the same thing. It had even more about Beverly shite 90210 aswell as an interview with one of the actresses who was suitably dolled up in GRUNGE FASHION. What made me sick was the 'fanzine of the month' column - oh, they desperately want cred! If they like fanzines so much why don't they stop being dictated to by the advertiseres and get rid of the adverts altogether thus becoming a darling fanzine. If this is the closest the mainstream can get to teenage feminism they have a long way to go!
P.S Everyone kisses Vanity Fair's arse - I saw articles about Country Love in Elle + The Face complain of now they have lost that feather from their caps?) + were in no way shambolic. Can no-one see some of this is BLUES? Blowdry is pure Blues and I love it. Hopscotch was a joyous^{song} and make the hair on the back of my neck go all funny (to put it bluntly). No encore unfortunately but I did chat to Jo after the show and she gave me some tips on getting girls at the front - she is really dedicated to this stuff + I really admire her guts, intelligence and perseverance. I went home elated and jumpy. I thought about Chris and Tobi all the way through maths next day.

K

MY SECRET by H to B is a harrowing song about the abuse the singer and her best friend suffered when they "were only ten". It is a definitive child agnst record really with the singer angry and frustrated while the guitar is simple. It's the lyrics that make this song as the riff is pretty repetitive but the words have grit.

COOL SCHMOOL by B is brilliant! Sample lyric "I don't want to know what's so cool about what I'm wearing-when you can't even tell me how you feel-and you can't be my friend for real!" Cool teenage girl, fuck off, girl love excellence. Really catchy - Will make you run around shouting "cool schmoool!" at passing boys for days.

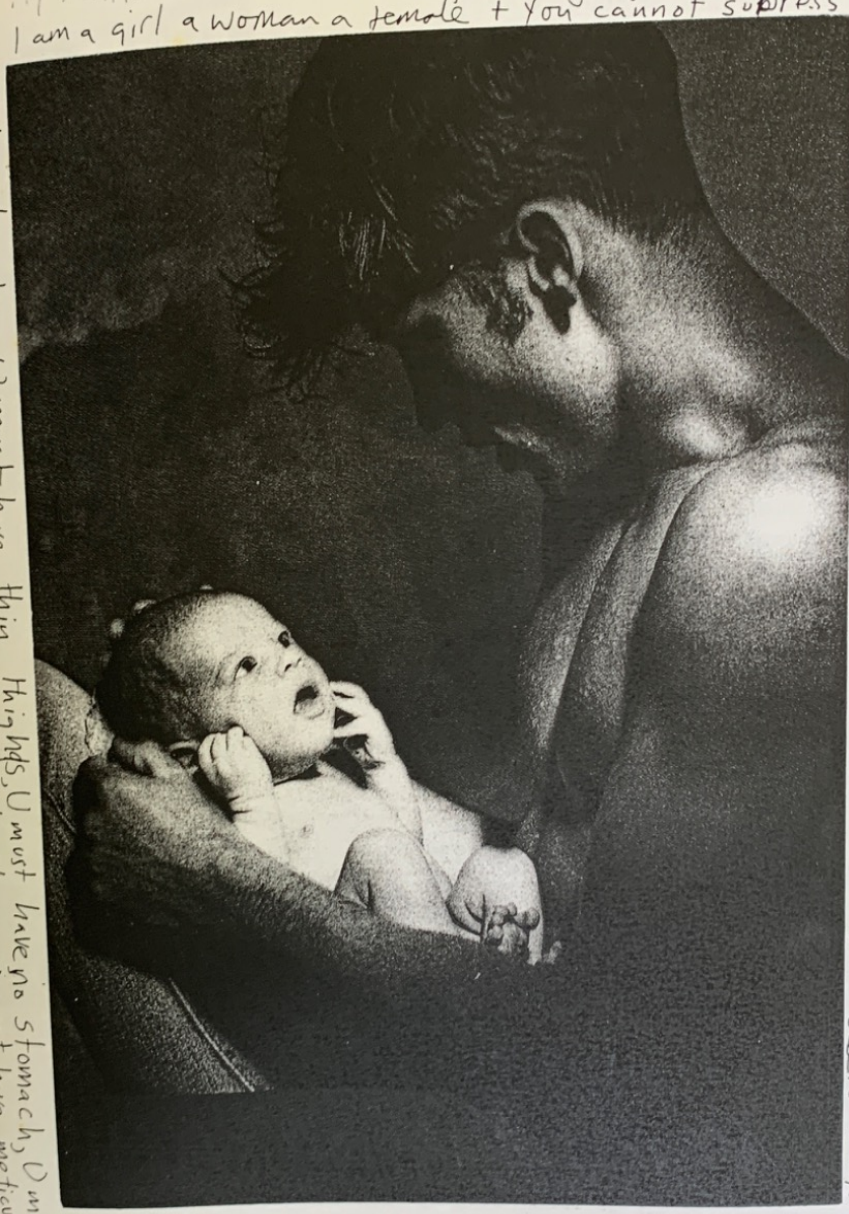

THE MUFFS SUBPOP

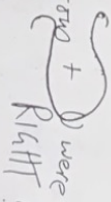

I NEED YOU is pretty rock n roll (like the Ramones or Shonen Knife). I like the catchy riffs but the lyrics are pretty poor, kinda "woa baby, I need you so bad blah, blah, blah". It comes on nice turquoise vinyl though, so I forgive them. Good to do Elvis impressions to in your bedroom mirror.

... scream why why why - it's judged at free value!

Thursday 11th MARCH

HUGGY BEAR/BIKINI KILL + WITCHY POO

Well, I was looking forward to this for a month or so so I was pretty pissed off when I turned up on the wrong night (the day before). I really didn't expect to be standing in line outside with a bunch of 30 year old, ponytailed gits in RUNRIG t-shirts!

I returned home annoyed and ate instead. The next night it was pretty much PUNK HEAVEN.

WITCHY POO were cool and a good support act. I found their stories and poems just as enthralling as listening to another band. Why make barriers by saying you MUST have music when this was just as relevant?

I like the way there are more boys who do not necessarily want to be girls but are not exactly society's dictation of what is masculine but just as attractive (XXY chromosomes maybe my Biology teacher recons). Take Eric from Hole, Thurston Moore, Billi Bikini and even Brett from Suede. I think WITCHY POO are this. Even so, I thought the song 'Fuck the Mother Fuckin' President' was a bit unimaginative.

I wriggled my way to the front for Bikini Kill and was disappointed how many girls were absent - I'd expected gangs of femmes I could chat to but it was still male majority. It wasn't like a MAC LADS gig or anything but I had expected more. I got way more respect which gave me a certain sense of power - those guys would never or dares step out of line at this gig!

BIKINI KILL were gallus! They were so friendly and loud and just girl heaven in baseball boots! They were sure of themselves and sexy and sassy and amazing. They played lots of stuff off the new album which I did not own at the time so can't name any except Jigsaw Youth and Feels Blind off the last album which I liked the best as it was dedicated to me (swoooooon!). I just loved the way they smashed the stereo-

CAMILLE & PAGLIA MUST DIE! This is the woman who claims DATE-RAPE is due to a Pavlov's Dog - a program of rape - shut the fuck up!

If women are articulate and sing about "the profit from the rape lie", society wants them to be ugly and humorless so they can be dismissed as unattractive and therefore uninteresting. But these femmes (and boy) were so sexy! Not in a male-invented sexiness though (you know what I mean - in Penthouse the women are faceless, submissive, ~~express~~less, make-up masked, trussed up in uncomfortable undies-JUST CUNTS really) more of an adrenalised, untitilating, honest way. They all swapped instruments a squillion times and proved they could "play their instruments". I beleive they are best live, though it is fun to play along with them and jump around to in your room to.

During the interval I bought REGGAE CHICKEN which is brill and "designed to confuse you into submission" claims a cynical friend. There was a woman makeing a video about Bikini Kill in the bogs who was nice (if you would like to find out about this video write to Stinkzine or the band .). We all vowed in the toilet to get off out arses and do something.

HUGGY BEAR I think were annoyed about the lack of grrrls there - especially at the front. One thing I did notice was the less hostility, more waryness, off men I got. I'm 5ft5" and usually get pushed and squashed to bits but the guyes parted like the red sea to let me get to the front.

They also played alot from the new lp (no CD format - nice one Huggies!) but highlits were hop scorch and of course her jazz. They were much quieter than BK - hardly said anything in between songs and slightly humorless. Nikki has a dreamy voice - all pure and clear and cynical and expressive - YUM YUM.

They also proved they were perfectly good musicians - why do the music press make such a fuss over this? The Sex Pistols were piss poor on their instruments but they were 'seminal' so were the Ramones, so are the Manic Street Peachers but when a female (ish) band who can play and have the IDEAS come along they still dredge up that argument. Well they CAN play (what will the cynics

I HATE the fashion industry with a loathing I cannot begin to describe.

Why then did I go to the Annual Glasgow School of Art Fashion Show then? Weelll - this is probably the best art school in Britain right, and it has wads of female students so there is bound to be the odd feminist who would fancy her chance of parodying this bloated atrocity they call fashion business. Right? Wrong.

My friend + I took our seats and a pouting tottering model came out dressed as a 40's usherette and mumbled her way through some intro rubbish while some sad guys wolf whistled - I snored.

The clothes? For the men these mostly consisted of jeans and wait for it - T-shirts! Wow! Pretty inovative!

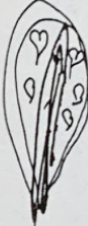

The women slunk about in afro wigs, platform high-heels + tight dresses or the odd bikini.

Thats really exciting not to mention NEW! Afro + platforms? Certainly hasn't been done before. I must admit, they did not use

LATER THAT NIGHT...

Dear BARBIE,

My name is Theresa, like one of the other Barbie dolls. I wish I was beautiful just like you!

In BARBIE FASHION #2, the story I like best was "Look of the 90's." I think you look very beautiful in romantic clothes.

I am a big fan. I have a whole bunch of Barbie dolls. In BARBIE #3 I liked the story "Ice Escapades." The girl named Esmerelda is ugly.

In April I am going to move. I can't wait. And I can't wait until it is June because I am going to turn 8!

Dear Barbie,

My name is Dallas, and I have four of your BARBIE FASHION books. I really like the stories. My favorites are "Beauty Sleep," "Ability," "Be A Sport," "The Show Must Go On," "White Wash," and "Fashion Issue." And I like that all our stories teach me something.

I'm in third grade and I'm eight years old. I'm turning nine in October. My birthday list is one Barbie, one Ken, and two Barbie cars.

Everyone is beautiful in their own way. Theresa! We know you are, too — just need to believe in yourself, others will see it, too!
Congratulations on your move, and happy birthday (a little late).

Feminists are burly lesbians say students of both sexes

Sarah Lonsdale

MEN blame women for date rape and feminists are despised as hairy-legged vegetarian lesbians by many men and women alike, according to two new studies of British attitudes.

The 'backlash' against feminism, which blames the women's movement for everything from the break-up of the family to the 'new' phenomenon of date rape, was until now confined to a small band of writers and academics. But the new studies reveal the reaction has filtered through into the popular consciousness.

The studies, published yesterday at the annual conference of the British Psychological Society in Blackpool, indicate that even young people agree with the idea that feminists are ugly man-haters; that women who get drunk and flirtatious on dates are 'asking for it'; and that date rape is far less serious than other forms of rape.

The study on attitudes to date rape, a term coined in the US for campus-based rape by a known assailant, was conducted by psychologists Dr Kate Gillen and Dr Steven Muncer. It examined the responses of 140 students, mostly aged 19 to 22.

Dr Gillen said: 'I was worried and surprised by the men's response, which identified female drunkenness and female flirtatiousness as causes, and therefore as a dangerous justification of date rape.' Women blamed male drunkenness, failure of communication and society's view that date rape is not serious.

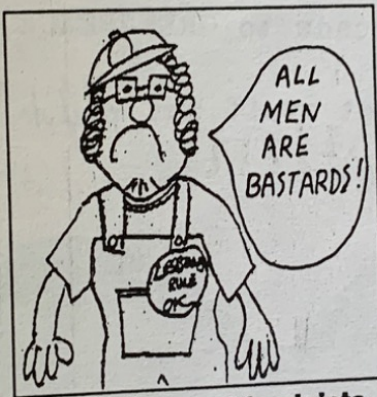

The second study asked 500 male and 500 female students their views on feminists and feminism. Co-authors of the study, Dr Gerda Siann of Glasgow University and Dr Halla Beloff, said: 'Half of the female students questioned made negative comments about feminists, such as 'campaigning busybodies; man-hater; lesbian sergeant-major type.'

Even more men were negative — one, who said he was 'slightly sympathetic' towards feminists, described them as 'short hair, dungarees, lesbian, parrot earrings, close minded, bitch, loud mouth, sexist'.

Dr Siann said: 'A theme apparently emerging is that in the wake of feminist victories it is men, rather than women, who are disadvantaged, if not economically, then emotionally and socially.'

The women questioned sympathised with feminism, but not with feminists. While men are more likely to associate feminism with lesbianism, left-wing politics and vegetarianism, women more often link it with the Suffragette movement.

A male view of feminists.

IN THE WORDS OF BIKINI KILL — "SISTER, SISTER, WHERE DID WE GO WRONG??"

It's horrible to think that in my short life time, I'm fifteen at the moment, I have probably been subjected to more sexual harassment, abuse and sex associated comments than a male will ever be subjected to in his entire life time. I am hardened, I'm always on my guard. I shouldn't need my personal alarm when I go out at night but I do + I hate men for making me unsafe.

I hope they are ashamed of their
